KeyMacro is a software tool that allows you to easily create macros (short, keyboard shortcuts) that you can use in any Office application. Features: This version includes an extensive list of pre-defined keyboard shortcuts that can be saved in the program. You can easily create a new shortcut by simply pressing the new shortcut key and following the on-screen instructions. Start the program and choose the application that you want to have a key combination associated with. You are then presented with the dialog box that allows you to choose what shortcut key combination you want. When you are done, click OK and you will be presented with a list of all the shortcuts you just created. You can also edit and/or delete an existing key combination. You can save and load all your shortcuts. You can also edit the status of the shortcuts (for example to automatically run the shortcuts). You can add a keyboard shortcut to a menu by right-clicking on the menu. You can automatically start a program by right-clicking on it and choosing Start With Windows. The program can show a dialog box when a program is trying to quit. System Requirements: KeyMacro requires Windows XP SP2, Windows 7 SP1, Windows 8 or Windows 8.1 Vista and older versions are not supported. Note: For XP SP2 and above, KeyMacro needs an update to support the Office 2007 applications. KeyMacro comes with the following pre-defined shortcuts: Actions End (CTRL+END) End (CTRL+F) Find (CTRL+F) Find Next (CTRL+F) Find Previous (CTRL+F) First Document (CTRL+HOME) Go to first page (CTRL+PGDN) Go to next page (CTRL+PGUP) Go to previous page (CTRL+PGUP) Go to last page (CTRL+PGDN) Go to last page (CTRL+PGDN) Go to page (CTRL+PGDN) Go to next paragraph (CTRL+PGDN) Go to previous paragraph (CTRL+PGUP) Go to next paragraph (CTRL+PGUP) Go to previous paragraph (CTRL+PGUP) Go to paragraph (CTRL+PGUP) New Window (CTRL+N) New Document (CTRL+N) 77a5ca646e
